

Each Day Should Be Devoted to Miracles...

Insights from the New Edition of A Course in Miracles

A Workshop with ROBERT PERRY

The Circle of Atonement is pleased to announce this one-day workshop led by its founder, A Course in Miracles teacher and author, Robert Perry. Robert is the editor of the Circle's recently released Complete and Annotated Edition of A Course in Miracles.

The "CE" is based on the original handwritten notes of Helen Schucman, restoring extensive material edited out of earlier editions. This previously unpublished material clearly establishes A Course in Miracles as a course in miracle working. In it, we can see that the author was laying a foundation for Course students, a foundation that is all about becoming a miracle worker, a beacon of light and love in a dark world.

In this workshop, Robert will help you lay hold of this foundation. Through stories, quotations, and practical exercises, you will learn the basics of what it means to be a miracle worker and the implications of this for your life.

"Each day should be devoted to miracles....

You should begin each day with the prayer,

'Help me to perform whatever miracles you want of me today.'
